WHY SPONSOR THE LIFECYCLE BUILDING CENTER?

When we collectively organize and work together, we can transform our community.

Each year, millions of pounds of reusable materials are discarded into the waste stream. The result is overcrowded landfills, increased greenhouse emissions, and overuse of natural resources. If we want our planet to be a safe and healthy environment for generations to come, then we must be better stewards of our resources and do all we can to support environmental sustainability. You are also helping Atlanta reduce its solid waste, improving the energy-efficiency of Atlanta's housing stock, educating the public about the benefits of material reuse and providing residents, businesses and nonprofits with access to low-cost building materials.

ABOUT LIFECYCLE BUILDING CENTER

Lifecycle Building Center is a community-based warehouse facility that positively impacts communities and the environment by identifying and implementing best practice green building-related concepts. Our efforts reduce the cost and negative impact of solid waste disposal, promote resource efficiency, stimulate economic development, and empower every citizen to improve their own built environment.

The heart of the LBC concept is our large-scale material reuse retail center which enables LBC to direct used building materials to the general public in lieu of disposal. Revenue from the material reuse center are used to enact the LBC mission and creatively serve the community at large.

OUR MISSION

MISSION STATEMENT:

To make the lifecycle use of the built environment increasingly efficient and sustainable.

The mission of the LBC is to make the lifecycle use of the built environment increasingly efficient and sustainable. This mission is enacted in three ways.

- Through the operation of a retail building material reuse center as a workable and self-sufficient alternative to material disposal
- By using proceeds from material sales to fund grassroots community outreach programs that educate community members and enhance resource efficiency in the built environment
- By empowering the community with the educational and experiential resources needed to effectively raise market demand for green building goods and services

LBC SERVICES

- Operation of a 70,000 sq. ft. building material reuse center that sells affordable building materials to the public and donates free materials to non-profits, schools and houses of faith.
- Deconstruction services, deconstruction training and material reclamation audits of construction and demolition projects.
- Donation pick-up services for useable materials by our staff and trained volunteers.
- Community workshops which empower participants to reuse materials and help homeowners save energy/water, minimize hazardous conditions and improve the durability of their homes.

LBC IMPACT SINCE 2011

- Diverted close to 5.0 million pounds of reusable building materials from area landfills
- Donated free building materials to 160 nonprofit organizations
- Saved the community over $2.5 million through deep discounts on building materials and avoided disposal fees
